Greetings NCGCC Family:

“His mercies are new every morning. Great is His faithfulness.” Lamentations 3:22-23

As we continue each day through this COVID-19 pandemic, we know God is faithful and merciful. We must remain diligent through our daily walk, as we travel the path of the unknown with our trust and faith securely in God.

Our NCGCC family has experienced a lot, considering all of the changes that have come before us, such as illness, death, job change and many other circumstances beyond our control. We STILL have much to be grateful for, knowing that God is still blessing us through these days of turmoil.

We celebrate Dr. Kevin Parrot and the AHTI team for a successful Black History Month virtual presentation “This is Our Story, This is Our Song.” People are still interested in becoming a part of NCGCC and participating in our convention. Universities and other organizations constantly contact me and are in awe by our 88 years of history.

We must not be weary in well doing. Keep wearing your mask, social distancing, and sanitizing your hands and homes. There is a light at the end of the tunnel. I sincerely miss the in-person warmth of the gatherings of regionals and convention. We shall have these wonderful times in the future. Stay tuned as plans are in the making for our 2021 virtual Board Meeting.

Remember, we are history and still an integral part of the gospel music industry.

Hang in there NCGCC family.

All is well,

Dr. Marabeth E. Gentry
National President
